"A fantastic week at Combrew Farm"

Left on Dec 12, 2015 for a stay in Sep 2015

Although a few weeks (months even!) have passed since we stayed at the lovely Courtyard Cottage, this lapse of time does not detract from the wonderful week we spent there. Everything about the accommodation and the 'home from home' facilities was 'top drawer'. The cottage was spotlessly clean when we arrived and the welcome pack really was welcome after a very long journey. The owners, John and Sue, were very friendly and welcoming and always available to provide information about the local area (if you couldn't already find it in their information room). With the Tarka Trail only a mile or so away (for cycling and walking - bikes available from Combrew at competitive prices), the wonderful sandy beaches of North Devon close by and great sports facilities available at Combrew Farm, what more could you wish for? Even if the weather is poor, there are great leisure facilities, including an indoor pool, available. We were blessed with a week of brilliant sunshine so that was a bonus. We'll definitely be coming back.

John's of Instow

An emporium of fine food John's of Instow is indeed truly special. On holiday we all like to spoil ourselves with a special treat – there can be none more special than the tempting array on offer from John's along the seafront in nearby Instow. Homemade bread, quiches, pies, cakes, meringues, and much much more – the chocolate brownies are to die for – fresh meat, ham, bacon, all of the same incredibly high quality are all available as are your everyday grocery items, it is a real pleasure to shop in an unhurried relaxing way savouring as you do the myriad on offer in this highly regarded local shop. Having beaten off stiff competition from over 500 entrants to win the 2015 Retailer of the Year, John's can be justifiably proud of these achievements and with comments from one satisfied customer such as the one below at least one visit to John's during your stay should be firmly on the agenda!

"It's such a pleasure to shop at Johns. Everyone who comes to stay with us takes a range of products back with them and for my father in law to admit that it's the best meat he has tasted is a first!! The quality of the food is high as is the customer service. It's our equivalent to Fortnum & Masons."
